represent it then it follows that pattern recognition constitutes a primary form of human perception one that can be parsed empirically statistically and phenomenologically In turn this volume reasons that literary historical cartographical scientific mathematical and counterfactual narratives create their own spatio temporal frames of reference Confluences between the poetic and the positivistic the empirical and the impressionistic the epic and the episodic and the chronologic and the chorologic can be identified and studied by integrating practices in historical geography GIScience geoscience and textual analysis As a result new perceptions and insights facilitating further avenues of scholarship into uncharted waters emerge The various ways in which geographical historical and textual perspectives are hermeneutically woven together in this volume illuminates the different methods with which to explore terrae incognitae of knowledge beyond the shores of their own separate disciplinary islands Annals of the National Association of Geographers, India ,1990

River Ganga P. L. Madan,2005 The Western perception of India has varied widely since antiquity Early Egyptians and Babylonians had a vague idea about the region Greeks on the other hand were more aware geographical perspectives and perceptions changed rapidly science of cartography swiftly advanced means of collecting empirical carto geographical data multiplied rapidly map makers were kept busy Many inaccuracies or fallacies crept in the early stages of map making some inevitable others not so Map makers carried on with these inaccuracies not for years or decades but for centuries In one map the author was surprised to see that a river Ganga shown flowing in the south central region of India and falling into the Bay of Bengal in Orissa This river was south west of the great delta of the real Ganga or Ganges coming from the north west in Bengal called Bengala in the map Two Gangas or Ganges in one map And this in the map by a well known map maker of the time This was one of the reasons for the author s quest for early geographical literature to find out the reasons behind showing Ganga in peninsular India and the perpetuation of the fallacy for centuries by other respected cartographers as well This important volume would go a long way in deciphering the mystery and fascination the Indian subcontinent especially the holy river Ganga has held for cartographers from time immemorial

Mobile Mapping Clancy Wilmott,2020-02-05 This book argues for a theory of mobile mapping a situated and spatial approach towards researching how everyday digital mobile media practices are bound up in global systems of knowledge and power Drawing from literature in media studies and geography and the work of Michel Foucault and Doreen Massey it examines how geographical and historical material social and cultural conditions are embedded in the way in which contemporary digital cartographies are read deployed and engaged This is explored through seventeen walking interviews in Hong Kong and Sydney as potent discourses like cartographic reason continue to transform and weave through the world in ways that haunt mobile mapping and bring old conflicts into new media In doing so Mobile Mapping offers an interdisciplinary rethinking about how multiple translations of spatial knowledges between rational digital epistemologies and tacit ways of understanding space and experience might be conceptualized and researched
